

Cyberbullying Role Play Scenarios

You have just made your first Facebook account. You get a friend requests from someone you don't know. You ask your friend if they know them, they don't. Think about whether you would accept them? What would be the dangers of accepting them?

You are at a friend's house; you decide to give each other a make over. Your friend does your make up and then won't let you see it until she takes a photo. She shows you the photo and then says she has deleted it. When you get home you get a notification that someone has added a photo of you, it's the photo that your friend took. Her and some other girls have been writing nasty comments on the photo. What do you do? Who would you talk to?

You get a new phone for your birthday. You have sent everybody you know your new number. A few days later someone is messaging you inappropriate messages and is making you feel uncomfortable. You try to ignore it but it is only getting worse. What are you doing to do? Who are you going to tell?

Your best friend has been messaging a boy/girl from another school. They are becoming quite close. She/He has never met him/her but he/she has recently been asking for his/her address so that he/she can meet. She/him wants to meet them on their own. You don't think this is a good idea. What are you going to do?

A fake account has been made under your name. The fake account is messaging everyone you know inappropriate messages. Your friends are no longer wanted to hang out with you. You try to explain that the account isn't you, but they don't believe you. After a few weeks you find out that the fake account has been created by one of your close friends. What do you do? Who are you going to talk to?